

BRAVE NEW SUBURB

It is time for a brave new suburb; where America's patchwork of "red, yellow, and blue" cookie-cutter landscapes (of Japanese maple, forsythia, and Colorado blue spruce) is replaced with a mosaic of mini-ecosystems.

Annie Raver, "Human Nature: In the Suburbs, Brave New Lawns," New York Times, May 24, 2001

Brave New Suburb:
A thesis design fostering dual habitation between wildlife and people in a northern New Jersey suburb

Amanda Bayley
The City College Of New York
School of Architecture, Urban Design, and Landscape Architecture
Thesis Studio, Spring 2009